PREFACE

Yes, Manhattanville has changed. City subways and roller skating down the sidewalks of New York have been replaced by a pumpkin-colored bus and bicycling over the hills and dales of Westchester County.

But despite these changes in environment, our lives are molded here at Purchase just as those of our predecessors were formed at Convent Avenue. The same principles abide, the same goal exists; only the accidentals are altered

—so that both the past and the future
may say: “Here is Manhattanville.”

As a link between the old order and the new, you, the Class of '55, have a special part in this fulfillment. As we,
the Junior Class, present to you your Tower, we hope that it will have a special meaning for you who have known both sides of our history. For you have,
in your own words—

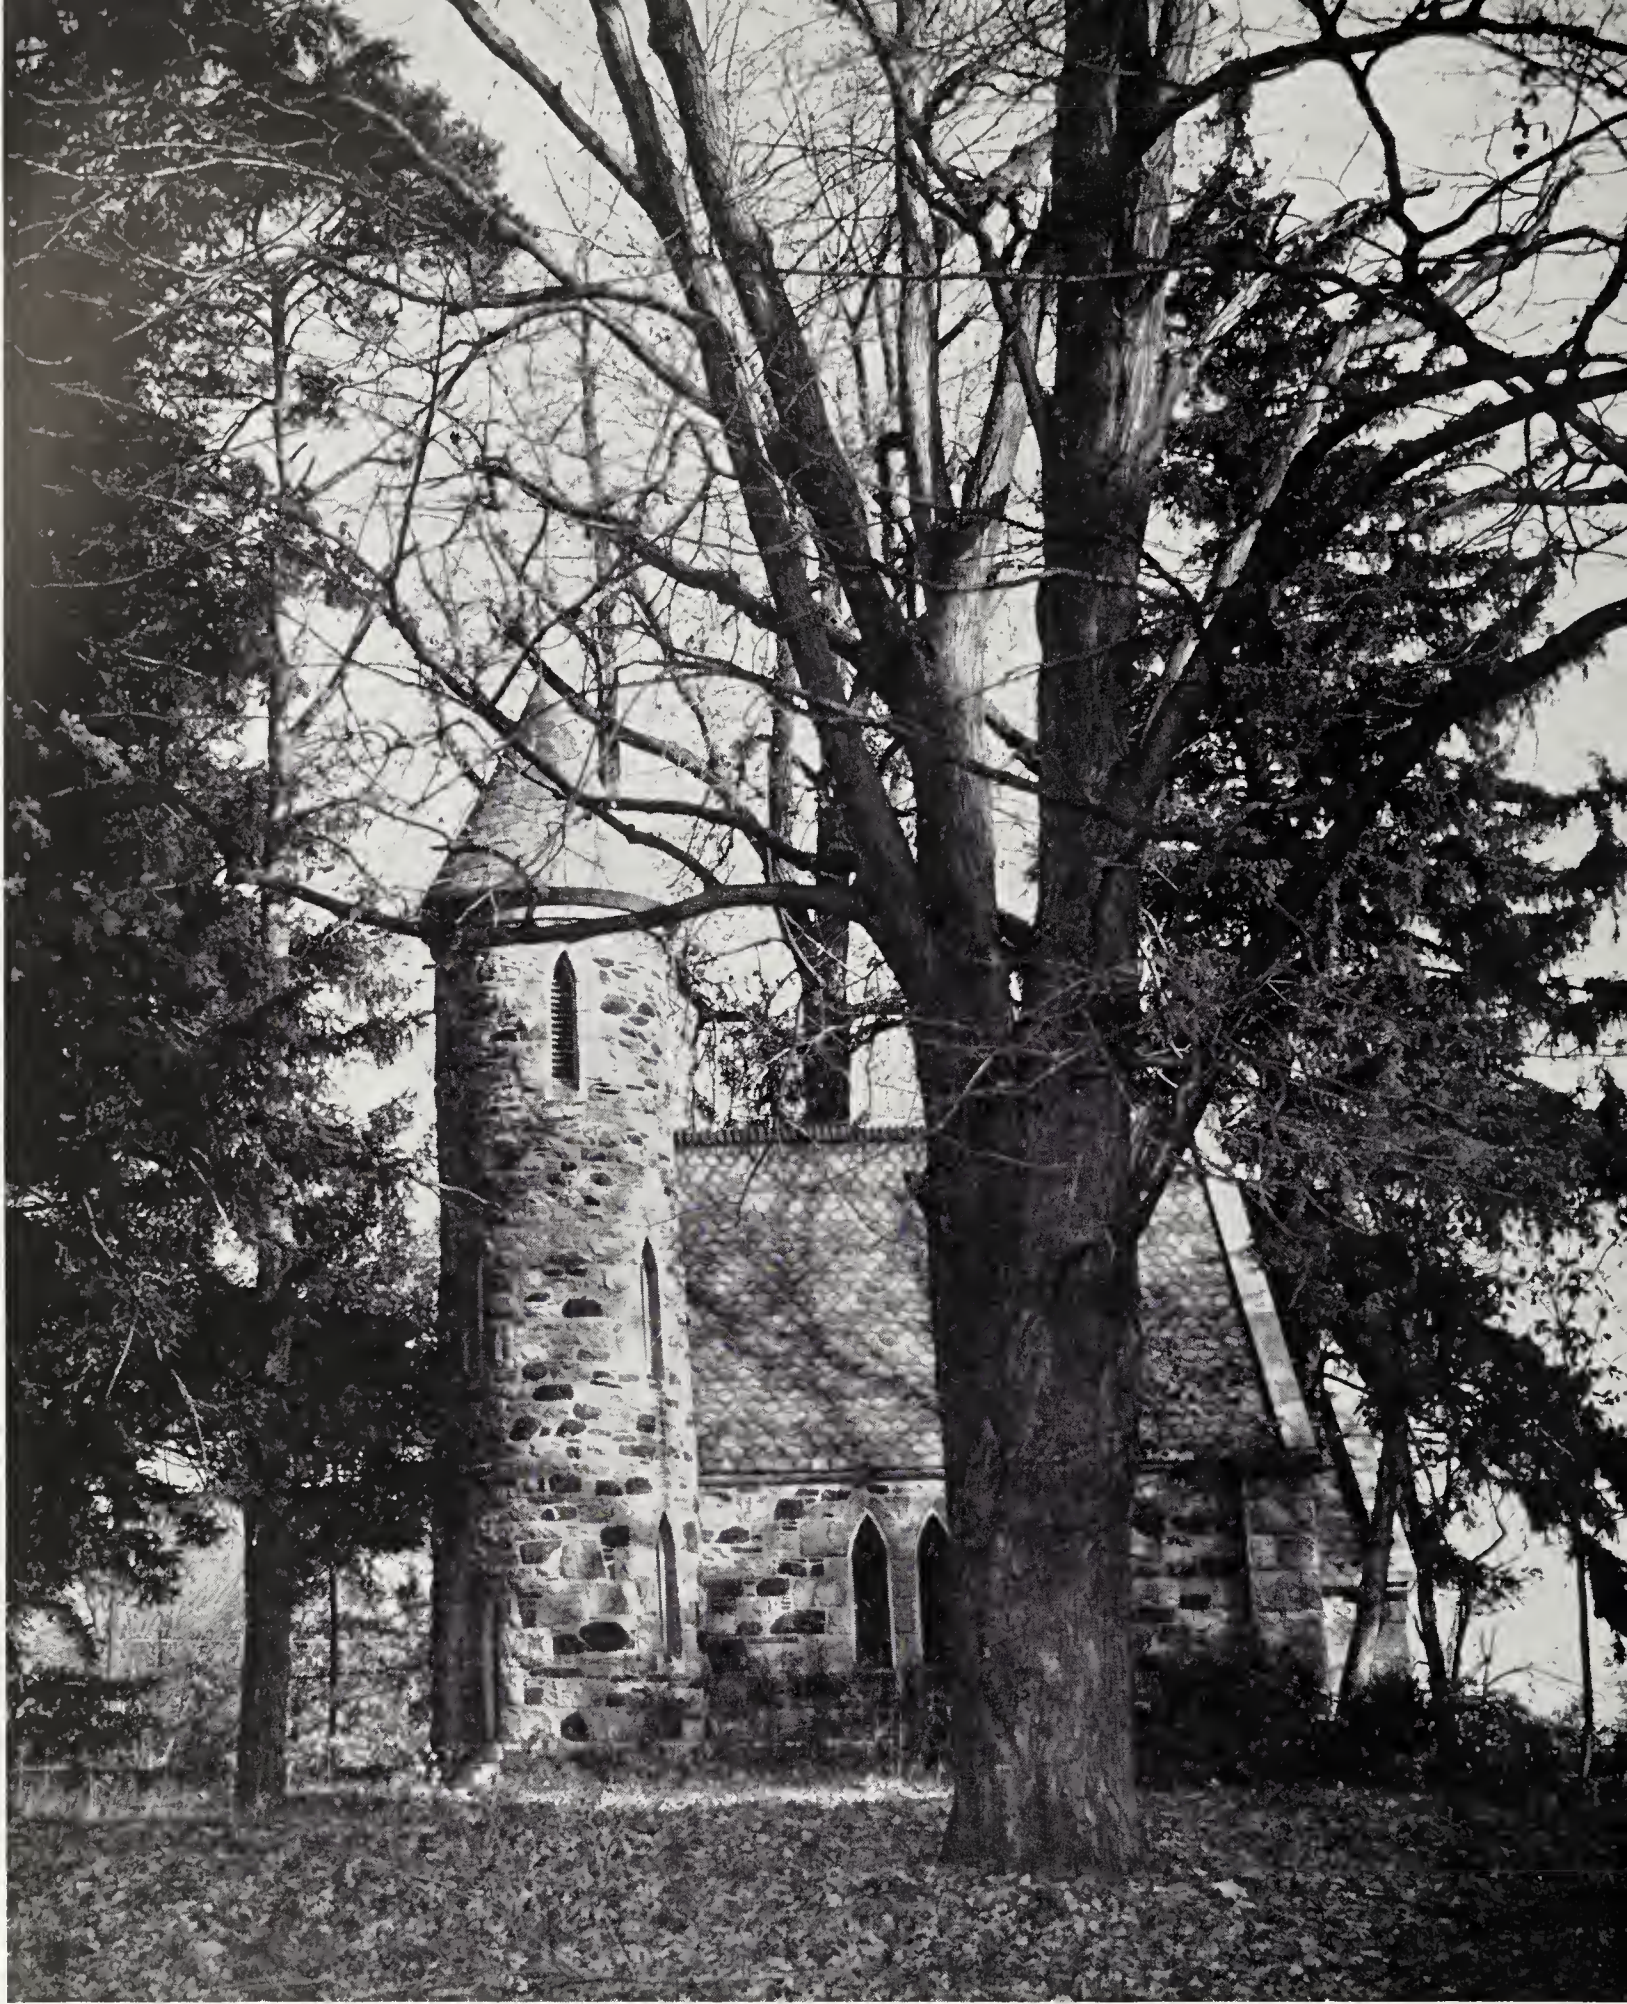

“... given us a finely seasoned blend:
New hopes and old traditions to defend.”

The Junior Class

yielding place to new . . .

And God fulfills himself in many ways

o one who has carried the spirit of Manhattanville to distant parts, while kindling that spirit here at Purchase . . .

To one who has led us confidently to the new, while not relinquishing the traditions of the old . . .

To one whose example has taught us the ideal way of life—doing the truth in charity . . .

We dedicate, in loving gratitude, the 1955 Tower.

FACULTY

Faculty

Drawn from all parts of the world, our faculty has brought to Manhattanville a diversity of culture, a wealth of experience and a love of knowledge. These they have shared generously, guiding every student in her search for wisdom. Their willingness to give of their time outside the classroom, their support of student activities and organizations, and their personal interest in each individual student have led over a period of years to the development of a deep bond of mutual respect and loyalty. But in addition to the hours devoted to Manhattanville, our faculty continues to advance further in their respective fields. Evidence of this fact was given at a faculty panel discussion held last fall during National Education Week. Mr. Woods spent last summer unearthing treasures from the hidden city of Ampurias; Dr. Alscher carried on valuable research (in an icebox!) at the Marine Biological Laboratory in Woods Hole; Dr. Shine uncovered the fact that missionaries had introduced the Spanish musical tradition into Southern California and Mexico as early as 1529, while Dr. Lord painstakingly traced forgotten works of Carmona to every remote corner of Spain and catalogued her findings for the benefit of the art world. Thus they have awakened in us an appreciation of the wonders and riches of the past, all the while leading us forward on the path to knowledge, teaching us to face the future confident and unafraid.

Nan Irene Ahearn

125 Milton Road, Rye, New York

Convent of the Sacred Heart, Greenwich, Connecticut

Nan mixes the social and scholastic with an ease that mystifies us all. At one moment she may be overheard explaining Existentialism to a bewildered philosophy minor, while the next will find her dashing out the East Entrance for a hectic weekend. Her interest in music has been directed, for the benefit of the entire college, to the Pius X Choir and the Glee Club. Knowing Nan has increased our interest in reading, philosophy and music for Nan's enthusiasm is contagious and her interests are always worth heeding.

Kenarik Akopiantz

89-10 69th Avenue, Forest Hills, Long Island, New York

Anunchizavan Dadgar, Persia

Just mention the New Yorker or Perry Como, and Kenny will respond with animated interest. Happy and lighthearted, she finds equal enjoyment in a chat with a friend, an afternoon horseback ride, or a Dodger ball game. There is about her a poised self-assurance which enables her to get along with anyone and meet any situation that arises. Born in Russia, raised in Persia, and of Armenian descent, Kenny has won our admiration by her smooth adjustment to the American way of life.

Lise Claire d'Atri

10 Rockwood Drive, Larchmont, New York

The Ursuline School, New Rochelle, New York

Lise is a vivacious and sincere person with a knack for easy conversation on a variety of subjects. She enjoys life and has the gift of helping others enjoy it more fully. Known throughout the college as an actress who deserves top billing, she has ably headed the Dramatic Club through a most successful year. We will miss Lise, but we have the satisfaction of knowing that others will be enjoying the cheerfulness she has spread so abundantly while at Manhattanville.

Anne Catherine Azzara

176 Tulip Avenue, Floral Park, New York

The Mary Louis Academy, Jamaica, Long Island, New York

Anyone desiring psychological analysis can find Anne waiting in Room 70, armed with 124 questions that even you can answer. But her interest in people does not stop here, for Anne has devoted endless hours to the Relief Committee and to typing for The Centurion. From Long Island to Georgetown her flair for exotic hats has made her famous. We shall miss her wide-eyed expression which keeps us guessing; we shall miss Anne — a delightful mixture of practicality, generosity and joie de vivre.

Kathleen Bender, E. de M.

1025 Blythe Avenue, Drexel Hill, Pennsylvania

Convent of the Sacred Heart, Overbrook, Pennsylvania

As a sophomore, Kathy was the terror of Freshman Hazing, but when the ordeal ended her own transformation was as complete as that of her awed victims. Her deep insight and willingness to listen patiently to anyone's jokes or problems have made Kathy a welcome person at Manhattanville. Self-assured and poised as chairman of the Steering Committee, she has held the gavel with a firm hand. Her ingenious sense of humor, hilarious imitations, and disinterested sympathy will be remembered long after Kathy has struck out beyond the gates.

Barbara M. Bennison

301 First Avenue, Frankfort, New York

Convent of the Sacred Heart, Albany, New York

When Benny is in the offing you can be sure that there will not be a dull moment. But her popularity does not depend solely upon her sense of humor, for Benny has a sincere interest in everyone. A Citizenship Club meeting is usually animated by her wry expostulations on current affairs, but it is evident that these are the results of opinions well founded on fact. We wish that we could be among her future pupils for it is certain that a class with "Miss Bennison" would not be conducive to an afternoon nap.

Catherine Joan Brennan

169 Beach 145th Street, Neponsit, Long Island, New York

Convent of the Sacred Heart, Greenwich, Connecticut

Joan has been a "cog in the wheel" of '55's activities ever since she first stepped onto the campus, for her keen perception and mature outlook were quickly recognized. As president of the Freshman Glee Club, director of Sophomore Serenades and member of the Pius X Choir, she has shared her love of music with the entire college. Sitting down in front of the lounge piano, she quickly becomes Manhattanville's own Pied Piper. Joan has played her way deep into our hearts where she will long remain.

Patricia Burns

1918 Maple Avenue, Haddon Heights, New Jersey

Cathedral High School, Camden, New Jersey

For such a tiny person, Pat can find the weightiest tomes the library has to offer. But aside from her numerous intellectual pursuits, she has given much time and valuable assistance to N. S. A., choir and International Club. A born tourist, Pat led a one week tour via bicycle up the Hudson last summer, and those who went are clamoring for an encore. A lover of adventure, Pat need never go out of her way to find it, for she has the enviable capacity to create adventure out of everyday life.

Anne Elisabeth Cassiers

82 Lee Avenue, Scarsdale, New York

Sacre Coeur, Bruxelles, Belgium

Boyish blond hair, charming French accent, cheerful smile and open manner — no one else but Anne. A well-seasoned traveler, possibly her sojourns outside the United States are reflected in a love for the theatre and her artistic talent. Combined with the “old world” poise, she has a healthy liking for sports and the out-of-doors. Loyalty and friendliness are the traits that have won Manhattanville to her, and those are the qualities that will ensure Anne a happy future.

Katherine Chaplin, E. de M.

Old Farm Road, Chappaqua, New York

Convent of the Sacred Heart, Greenwich, Connecticut

"Is there anyone available with a car Monday afternoons?" No, Kate is not going anywhere herself, but she is involved in a most difficult job — managing transportation for Catholic Action. This is only one of the organizations which has benefited by her good-humored efficiency; since both the Interracial and Dramatic Clubs have numbered her among their members, while her literary efforts were generously expended on the 1954 Tower. A gracious manner and a slow contagious smile have won for Kate the esteem and friendship of us all.

Madeleine Chi

Shanghai, China

Aurora Middle School, Shanghai, China

Madeleine is marked by an oriental dignity and unassuming graciousness. Although her quiet wit often takes the form of laughter at other people's jokes, her comments on life, if taken literally, make her a humorist in her own right. Her world-wide view was illustrated by her collaboration in Father Dowd's translation of the catechism into the language of her own people; through Mission Club, of which she is the president, she reaches out to all nations. Madeleine's influence is ever unobtrusive and never unnoticed.

Margaret M. Christ

Huntington, Long Island, New York

Our Lady of Mercy Academy, Syosset, New York

Stately is probably the best word for Marge, but her blend of dignity and humor, reserve and generosity make this a stateliness which is never imposing. A fanciful imagination, enriched by a creative bent, is the source of Marge's thought-provoking stories which often hold us spellbound. This same literary endowment has made her recent membership on The Centurion staff one which has greatly benefited the college paper. A lover of boats and anything to do with the water, Marge's serenity will insure her smooth sailing through life.

Esther Brooke Christmas, E. de M.

Route 1, Box 54, Upper Marlboro, Maryland

Convent of the Sacred Heart, Washington, D. C.

Although an ardent devotee of the Confederacy, Esther never hesitates to drive "Caldonia" up into Yankee territory for a Holy Cross weekend. Tinkering with radios in the Physics' Lab is one of her favorite hobbies, but this has not prevented her finding time for class projects. However, her wholehearted devotion and her willingness to work behind the spotlight have shown themselves chiefly in her capacity as vice-president of the A. A. Unselfishness coupled with understanding make Magnolia a friend to whom we hate to say good-bye.

Gail Cone

16 75th Street, Brooklyn, New York

Saint Angela Hall, Brooklyn, New York

In Gail congeniality and delicate femininity have been so mingled that those who meet her discover at once a delightfully refreshing friend. A deep-seated love of music permeates everything she does and has made her a loyal member of the Glee Club. Yet Gail extends her interests to include not only operas and concerts but riding and politics as well. In the midst of Citizenship's heated debates, her quiet voice often silences our own loud expostulations, for we have learned the value of Gail's opinions.

Audrey Connell

993 Park Avenue, New York 28, New York

Convent of the Sacred Heart, Ninety-first Street, New York City

Among the usual run of announcements, Audrey will have one that is sure to cause a buzz of conversation. As co-chairman of the Frivolous Affairs Committee, she is Manhattanville's own issue of Cue, while as our "Table Hopping" reporter she brings to each issue of The Centurion another column of thoughts and sayings on Manhattanville life. With a dash of savoir faire, and a love of the out-of-doors, Audrey finds the perfect background for her versatility in either town or country.

Catherine Crossley, E. de M.

23 Stratford Place, Binghamton, New York

Convent of the Sacred Heart, Noroton, Connecticut

An even disposition and cheerful outlook are the ingredients found in Kate's recipe for life. As chairman of the Serenades Committee, literary "light" of the 1954 Tower staff, and president of the English Club, she has demonstrated her powers in three fields of literary endeavor: organizing, writing, and stimulating discussion. For these qualities which are doubly enhanced by an unforced graciousness and unassuming manner, we feel confident in placing Kate's goal no lower than the stars.

Mary Virginia Devereux, E. de M.

1 West Bradley Lane, Chevy Chase, Maryland

Convent of the Sacred Heart, Washington, D. C.

Ginny loves people, but her special interest lies in half the population of Maryland — namely, her family. Her enthusiastic and skillful participation in class games won her the President's Cup in her Freshman year. These same qualities were primarily responsible for the outstanding success of the annual Bridge Tea which ran smoothly this year under Ginny's able leadership. A firm faith in her convictions, together with a determination and perseverance to uphold them, will aid Ginny in starting a new life in the West.

Catharine-Mary Donovan, E. de M.

117 Beacon Street, Boston, Massachusetts

Winsor School, Boston, Massachusetts

The ability to retain her happy and unruffled attitude through all the tests, term-papers and trials of college life reflects Catharine-Mary's inner serenity and well-rounded personality. Almost anything you can mention, from sports to the opera, finds a place in her interests. Devotion to volunteer work betrays a truly generous heart. Whatever she decides upon, music or business, "C. M.'s" associates will be fortunate to know her.

Lorraine Dupre

256 Querbes Avenue, Outremont 8, Montreal, Canada

Pensionat du Sacre-Coeur, Sault-au-Recollet, Montreal

Mix curly hair and a unique sense of humor, add a French accent, with a dash of typical Gallic charm — this is Lorry. With frequent trips to the Laurentian mountains, and even more numerous journeys to the nearest golf course, she is usually a hard person to locate, but anyone who has attempted to find her has found it well worth the effort. It is appropriate that she is doing her senior project on personality testing, for hers is a personality that will pass every test with flying colors.

Mary Gail Ennis, E. de M.

262 West End Avenue, New York, New York

Convent of the Sacred Heart, Torresdale, Pennsylvania

A good listener, a riotous story-teller — it is always fun to be with Gail. Our Ping Pong Champion, she is a true devotee of anything athletic, whether it be on the hockey field at Purchase or a farm in Ohio. Gail's unselfishness and devotion to any Manhattanville cause is well known, but her most outstanding contribution has been her readiness to accomplish even the most thankless tasks that are hers as vice-chairman of Welfare. Seeking the best in other people, Gail has led us to expect the best from her, an expectation which has always been fulfilled.

Suzanne Frances Flanagan, E. de M.

453 Warren Avenue, Kingston, Pennsylvania

Saint Ann's Academy, Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania

With a twinkle in her bright blue eyes Suzanne takes everyday ups and downs in her stride. When not making plans for a Frivolous Affairs' excursion into New York or collecting for Relief and The Centurion, Suzanne can probably be found hurrying off to do hospital work or practice teaching. Her capacity for action leaves us breathless but respectful, for no one could help admiring such attentiveness to those in real need. With her joyful disposition and boundless energy, the future could only be a bright one for Suzanne.

Elisabeth Louise Flynn

Convent of the Sacred Heart, Sheridan Road, Chicago, Illinois

Smizzie belies the cliché about the Jack-of-all-trades because despite an amazing number of activities, she has succeeded in pursuing them all with thoroughness. Relief Committee, International Club and Opera Committee have benefited from her dependability and unsparing effort, while her talent for organization helped to assure the success of this year's first Freshman Dance. But in any capacity we will remember Smizzie as a person whose thoughtfulness and generosity have assured her our wholehearted friendship.

If we were asked to grant one favor to Baboo, our choice would be unanimous — a gym excuse! As the most glorious and gracious gardener of the 1952 Hazing Season, she combined an inspired sense of the humorous with an uncomfortably ingenious imagination. Extensive travel and summer stock work have provided her with a treasury of anecdotes making an hour's talk with Baboo both educational and amusing. A natural propensity for fun augmented by a serious interest in art, music and dramatics have made Baboo one of our favorites from '55.

Gloria's much revered grasp of Metaphysics has been the salvation of many a harassed junior, while her capacity for fun has enlivened numerous shopping sprees and Room 70 conclaves. Never at a loss for words, Glo has proved herself a noble chairman of DISC; ever full of song, she has been a loyal member of Glee Club and Pius X Choir. Granby School, Norfolk, Virginia

Of late, Southern accents have become a trademark peculiar to the chairman of the Dance Committee — and Mary has continued this tradition. Under her competent guidance, our dances have been increasingly successful. Although her Southern hospitality has earned her a time-consuming position as director of Manhattanville's social life, Mary equally enjoys spending a few quiet hours with a novel by Mauriac or Fitzgerald. One of those perennially happy people with a holiday sparkle, Mary has a genuine love of giving other people a good time.

Frances Marion Gimber, E. de M.

2 Clay Street, Newport, Rhode Island

Georgetown Visitation Convent, Washington, D. C.

As Welfare Board representative, Fran has shown us that beneath her gentle, composed manner, there lies a firm intelligence and organizational ability. Despite her active membership in Class Council and E. de M. Council, she nevertheless can squeeze an hour from her busy schedule to help wherever help is needed. Fran is one of those who succumbs easily to the lure of a good book, but she will always desert it to defend her beloved Navy. To her chosen field as a French teacher, Fran will bring not only a keen mind but her generous warmth.

Norma Concepcion Henares

217 Aurora, Pasay City, Philippines

Assumption Convent, Manila

Norma has brought from the Philippines a charm and graciousness marked by her refined taste in music and dress. The International Club has been enriched by Norma's cosmopolitan outlook and skillful performance of her native dances. As a "custodian of the lights" she has given devoted service to the Dramatic Club. Her quiet sympathy, eagerness to understand people, and appreciation of the humorous make us sorry that Norma's days at Manhattanville have come to an end.

Janet has been described as having a four-wheel personality. If this means eyes behind which always lurks a gleam of humor, a beguiling air, frankness and sincerity, we think the description is an apt one. She has played memorable parts in Dramatic Club productions, but the Class of '55 and those to follow are especially grateful for her work and success in standardizing the college rings. Coming from a staunch Midwesterner, Jean's unsolicited and unstinting praise of California should be an item of interest to the Chamber of Commerce. However, whether she is singing the praises of the San Jose climate or discussing some complex point concerning the finances of the Bank of America, we have no argument with Jeanie because her enthusiasm is always contagious and convincing. As chairman of Catholic Action Financial she has enlarged our spirit of giving — which is only to say that we imitate her own generosity of spirit.

Nancy has the remarkable ability of arriving leisurely at the very last minute and giving, by her sense of humor and unhurried friendliness, the impression that she has been there all the while. From her philosophical explorations, she has learned that life's best features pass unnoticed by someone in a rush. While the Debating and Glee Clubs have been her interests here, she equally enjoys a spirited conversation and her pertinent contributions are always welcome. Isn't she here yet? That's all right — it is well worth waiting for Nancy.

SENIORS

Convent Avenue received its last Freshman class four years ago in 1951. While today's Freshmen reside on the first floor of Founders', those at Convent Avenue dwelt in Arcadia, Broadway or Freshman Heaven. Daily they trudged over to the Teahouse or down to Doc's for an hour's fun. They too underwent the trials and tribulations of hazing, as Pipsqueak Privates were marched along the corridors to class by a group of Genial Generals. Drawn together by this common bond, they continued their united action to produce an original operetta, "A Little Bit of Heaven", as their Freshman entertainment. The Class of '55 grew firm roots in the foundations of the "old Manhattanville" and by May were ready, with the rest of the college, to be transplanted here at Purchase.

Their arrival as Sophomores was somewhat dampened by the humiliating experience of being forced to ask a well orientated, future Feeble, Floppy Flower exactly which path one took to the post office and just where the nearest phone booth could be located. However, they soon adopted drastic methods to salve their wounded pride as excessive chlorophyll was quickly removed by a band of Glorious, Gracious Gardeners. Later in the year, weeks of feverish activity and hours of practicing for Serenades under the competent direction of Joan Brennan and Kate Crossley were rewarded by a perfect performance the night before graduation.

Junior year saw the Class of '55 ready to take up the responsibilities of upper-classmen. With the aid of snackbar seminars, they conquered Metaphysics, while "Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane" became the password for the more economically minded. Mary Kay, Nora and Mary Ann proved themselves taskmasters in search of perfection in every field and their efforts resulted in a yearbook that won the approval and admiration of the entire college. As the college ascended the Seven Purgatorial Circles, originality augmented by a talent for mimicry made the Prophecies an inimitable success and a regretful farewell to the Class of '54. The choice of Nancy, Sheila, Tinker and Liz proved a good one, and with Mother Dowd's guidance and intuitive understanding to support them, they were ready to take the last big step in their academic career.

The perils and pitfalls of Senior year were accepted and overcome with gay composure. Research papers came off the production line in quick succession and harassed English and History majors searched diligently for courses that would give them a well rounded background for comprehensives. To aid in this frenzied search for knowledge, the Seniors rejoiced in the 1:00 A. M. study privilege. Room 70 and the study room were filled each night with the clatter of typewriters and the clinking of Pepsi Cola bottles—but never a word was uttered among these diligent workers!

Raising money for the class project was undertaken with enthusiasm. A bazaar, enhanced by Pamela the Palmist and a gambling concession, drained from the unwary student's pocket even the last dime carefully saved all day for that nine o'clock cup of coffee.

As graduation draws near the Seniors approach the long list of "last times" that makes leaving Manhattanville so hard. We have much to thank them for—their leadership, advice, and encouragement. But most of all we are grateful to them for helping us realize that while the buildings here at Purchase are new, Manhattanville has a past rich in spirit and tradition.

JUNIORS

C'est magnifique was the only expression that the Class of '56 could find to describe their delight upon returning to Purchase this September. As upper-classmen they were free at last from orientation and chairs, surveys and Saturday classes. In assuming their new responsibilities, the Juniors, with Kathy, Boody, Jane and Vir in the lead, lent their support to the Seniors, and undertook to impart to their Freshman sisters the spirit of Manhattanville.

Orientation Week found thirty-five courageous Juniors undaunted by the task of accompanying 160 Freshmen through the first difficult days of their college career. Gladly they carried bags, gave Cook's tours of the campus, answered questions, and demonstrated the "do's and don'ts" of group living. Before the week was up, they had discovered the friendly and appreciative spirit that has made their sister class a welcome addition to the Manhattanville ranks.

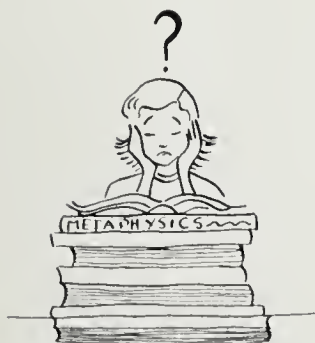

When the college returned and classes began, the Juniors undertook to usher at all major functions. Under Mother McCarthy's instruction they quickly learned that even if the ceiling were to fall in, they must remain calm and remedy the situation. The Ready, Radiant Repairmen of last fall found themselves offering comfort, shelter and advice to harassed and bewildered Spaceships.

Intellectual pursuits occupied much of their time, for the interpretation of St. Paul's teachings on the interior life presented no small problem, while the familiar proposition that "beings exist" confronted them with new and ever more puzzling ramifications. While it seemed that there would never be an end to outside reading and term papers, panels and quizzes, the Juniors regularly managed to dig themselves out from under the pile of work in order to uphold their reputation for gaiety and good spirits.

In February, a Valentine Party was in order for the Freshmen. But, as their biggest project, the Juniors dutifully went to work on the 1955 Tower. Cameras flashed at unexpected moments to the dismay of the surprised victims, and the business staff contrived to approach prospective contributors at the psychological moment. The Tower office was the scene of frequent midnight meetings as the literary intelligentsia, Thesaurus in hand, struggled with the intricacies of English expression, or frantically typed to meet a morning deadline.

In May the Juniors undertook their final production, the Prophecies, which were presented to the Seniors with mixed emotions shortly before Commencement. Facing the responsibilities of Senior year, the Class of '56 is confident, for the inspiration and guidance furnished by Mother Farley during their first two years, and lovingly provided by Mother Bourneuf this year, have prepared them well for the tasks that lie ahead.

SOPHOMORES

The Sophomores returned to Purchase this fall as veterans, happy to be free from chairs and orientation. As they took up residence in the Cottage, Deerfield, and Founders', they quickly established a tradition of hospitality and fun that has made the Deerfield kitchen and the Cottage lounge the scene of many successful parties. Despite being "geographically" separated, the class has progressed in both unity and spirit with Carole Sylvia, Bobbie, and Mary Kay to lead them.

On September 21st, the Freshmen, seeking safety in numbers, gazed apprehensively at the Sophomore arrival. Hazing finally began, as the Scintillating, Sophisticated Saturnites, under the command of Mary Ann Coleman and Elena English, put the Spoiled, Spinster Spaceships into hyperdrive and admonished them to vanish to the fourth dimension. When the latter had at last successfully managed to break through the sound barrier, they were rewarded with an inter-stellar party.

For the first time, Saturday classes were not inevitable, and after a certain amount of juggling, the more fortunate joyfully contemplated free weekends. No longer did the entire class wage the Napoleonic wars together, or journey with Miss Cave through the moors to Grendel's lair. However, a new challenge presented itself, as Christian Morality proved a pitfall for the unwary.

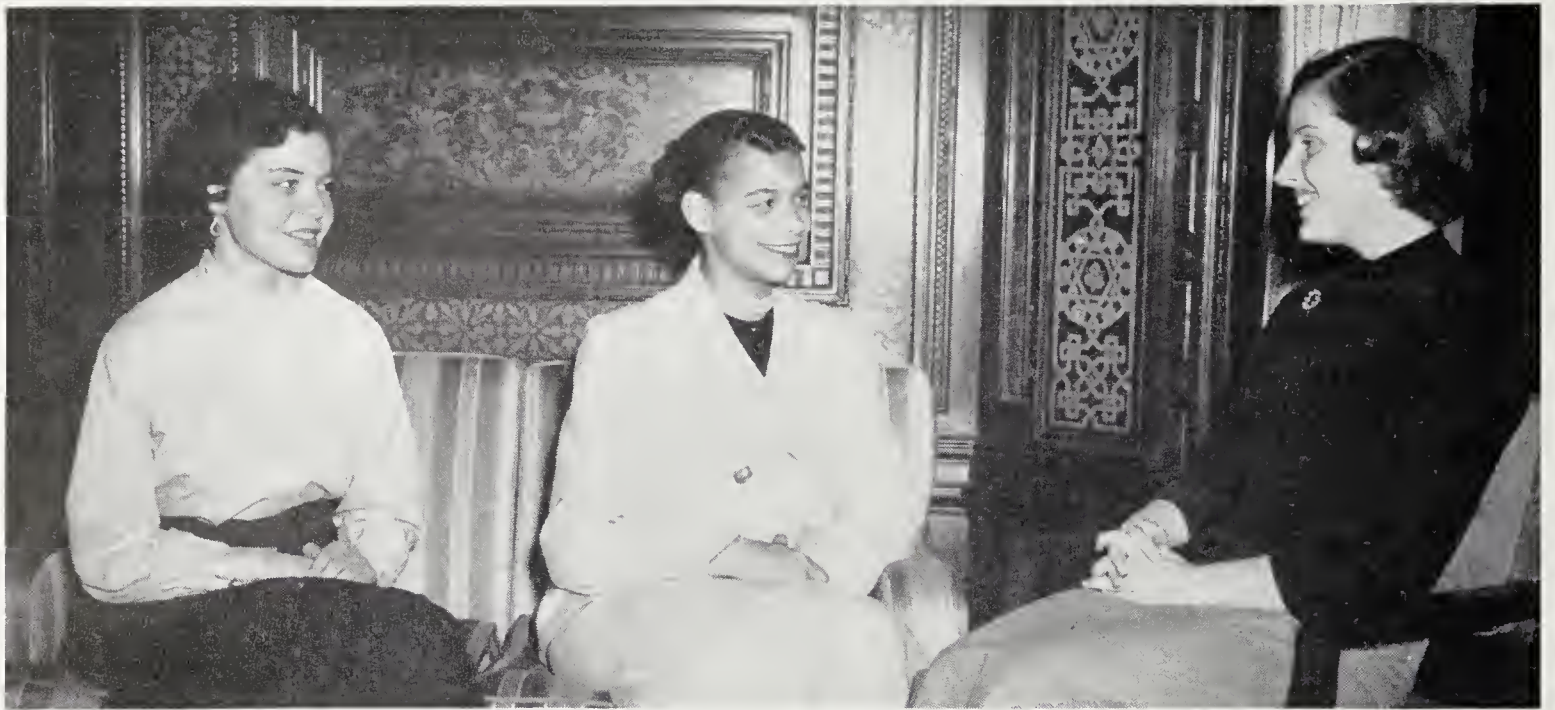

In February, the Seniors began lurking in the general vicinity of the Pius X Hall to hear, if possible, melodious fragments of the Serenades. With Margo Black and Joan Gannon in charge, the Sophomores worked tirelessly, polishing this offering to their sister class.

This year with Mother Clark's understanding guidance and support, the Sophomores have shown an increasing willingness to be of service, and have proved themselves more than worthy of their future status as upperclassmen.

"Christmas is coming . . ."

Up the road a piece

FRESHMEN

Despite the slight drizzle that hovered over Manhattanville on September 16, 1954, the Freshmen arrived, hale, hearty, and 160 strong! Having conquered the barrage of assemblies, tests, and guided tours that every Orientation period presents, they crowned the events of the week with a hilarious rendition of "The Lighthouse Keeper's Daughter". By the time the rest of the college returned, they had proved to their Junior sisters that Manhattanville had gained 160 high-spirited and loyal Freshmen.

They hardly had time to catch their breath before the hazing season was upon them, and Spoiled, Spinster Spaceships were ably guided across the campus by an austere squadron of Scintillating, Sophisticated Saturnites. With amazing rapidity, the Freshmen shed their exhaust pipes, regained their composure, and produced an entertaining performance of The Wizard of Oz for the entire college. This ability to unite themselves and carry through any project set before them has been an outstanding characteristic of the Class of '58.

November marked the beginning of hurried lunches and frenzied one o'clock meetings. In quick progression, they elected Taddy, Barbara, Diana and Cecy, and they have continued to support their choice of officers loyally throughout the year.

As soon as the class exhibited their willingness to accept responsibility, the first floor of Founders' burned brightly after 11:00 P. M. Shortly afterwards, they gained the much coveted privilege of the Saturday night V.L.P. on campus. However, the Freshmen continued to avail themselves of their privilege to serve as a committee of 160 in charge of chair moving—a task which they executed with efficient organization.

The Class of '58 have shown themselves ready to attempt anything from a cook-out for those who have courageously remained on campus over a long weekend to the rigors of a course in Christian Family Living. With Mother Hargrove ready to support their ideas with enthusiasm and encouragement, lending an experienced hand when it was needed, "The Beloveds" have taken the ups and downs of Freshman year with even strides. With this in mind, we are confident in predicting for them three more happy years at Purchase.

BETSY WALSH
President

This charge of our Mother General we must not neglect, for we live in a world groping in the dark for the God it has rejected. To be an apostle demands a strong spiritual formation. It is this that the Sodality offers to its members. The Child of Mary of the Sacred Heart pledges herself to strive for Christian perfection in imitation of Our Lady and in accordance with the rule of the congregation so that, firmly rooted in the habits of faith and prayer herself, she may better be able to make known to the world the infinite love of the Sacred Heart. The members of the Sodality know that only by consciously extending their love to those around them can they realize their union with all men in the Mystical Body of Christ.

Student Government

NANCY SHEA
President

The function of Student Government is not the work of a small group of law-makers, but rather of 470 individuals acting as a corporate self-ruling body. True education is not confined strictly to the classroom, but also consists in learning where our responsibilities lie and how to face them. This year we have come to realize more than ever that each regulation set before us has a specific, reasonable intent. With the assistance of Mother Dowd, the moderator, the twelve officers have pointed out to the individual student her own role as a participant in the activities of Student Government. As a result of their efforts, a nightly one o'clock study permission has been given to Seniors, a Friday night V.L.P to the upperclassmen, and an efficient announcement system has been inaugurated. Action follows from knowledge, and Nancy has brought us to a closer understanding of the principles by which we govern ourselves.

Welfare

E. WEISER
Chairman

Family spirit is the ideal of group living at Manhattanville. To the Welfare Committee, which includes members of the Faculty and works through the class councils, falls the responsibility of fostering this spirit of charity and courtesy by establishing the social standards to be observed. This year the committee was enlarged so as to be more representative of student opinion and many notable changes occurred. A "sense of propriety" became the guide with regard to dinner dress; and at last boys were found in the midst of lounge discussions and song fests. With a view to the future, the censure list and the point system were re-evaluated and the aims of all college clubs published for the benefit of incoming freshmen. Under Liz's leadership, the Welfare Committee has succeeded in awakening in the individual a sense of personal responsibility to the whole.

The influence of the Catholic layman working for Truth in a world that is fast losing contact with that Truth is a force which cannot be treated lightly. Thus there is, and must be, a great deal of emphasis upon Catholic Action today. How can one voice, one mind, or one pair of hands ever accomplish anything amid the noise and confusion which characterizes contemporary society? Here at Manhattanville, there are many opportunities for each student to answer that question with action. Under the guidance of Mother Hargrove, the CATHOLIC ACTION COUNCIL unifies and organizes the various fields of this activity. Composed of representatives from each class and Catholic Action group, this council is only a co-ordinating body and would be meaningless without the cooperation of the entire college. The Council, headed by Mary Jane Sullivan, meets weekly to discuss problems and suggest improvements which concern Catholic Action. One of its chief aims is to make Catholic Action real and vital by emphasizing the importance of each individual working to give the truth to another.

ACTION

In order for these various groups on campus to function effectively, they need to have adequate financial support. Through the efforts of the representatives to CATHOLIC ACTION FINANCIAL, under the chairmanship of Jean Madden, funds are collected and used where most needed all over the globe. A donation made annually by the students has a twofold purpose: it is a lesson in sacrifice, and a hand stretched out to give to a mission in the East, in Europe, in America, or to the needy right around us. Through Catholic Action Financial we collect the food parcels and gifts which make a Christmas for the underprivileged in the White Plains area. The expenses of student delegates to conferences, as well as incidental expenses incurred in the various on-campus Catholic Action societies, are taken care of by this financial branch of Catholic Action.

An aspect of Catholic Action which is at once world-wide and personal is N.S.A., the National Student Association. This organization is a living proof that the so-called "Younger Generation" can be powerful leaders in their own right. Representatives from colleges all over the United States meet to discuss student problems, especially in relation to world affairs in general. Delegates from Manhattanville and other Catholic colleges have the challenging task of presenting the Catholic viewpoint to listeners ignorant of it, or unfriendly towards it. N.S.A. also works to acquaint foreign students with American education. This year, Manhattanville played host to a group of Latin American students and to two Indonesian students who had recently been exposed to Communist influence. Ann Wall and Mimi Feltes were delegates at the annual N.S.A. Congress held in Ames, Iowa this past August. A decisive stand was taken on the question of segregation and the non-recognition of a Communist student organization. N.S.A. offers challenging cultural and educational opportunities and introduces the student to world-wide fields of activity, while remaining an active force on the campus itself.

Many voices can be heard more easily than one; many pairs of hands do the work more quickly. N.F.C.C.S., the National Federation of Catholic College Students, is an organization which strengthens Catholic Action among Catholics—a requisite before Catholic Action can be spread to others. By developing concerted action through inter-collegiate harmony in prayer and work, N.F.C.C.S. prepares young Catholics to constitute a strong, unified, and purposeful force in the modern world. This year, under the direction of Joan Mahoney, Manhattanville has again taken an active part in this nationwide endeavor. Smaller organizations or commissions attack and carry out different programs of work. This year Manhattanville holds the Regional Chairmanship on Interracial Justice, of which Ellen Dines is the college chairman. Other fields of N.F.C.C.S. work include forensics and literary affairs.

A very practical aspect of Catholic Action is the Relief Committee. Their special work is to supply the poor with the necessities of life. Through the proceeds of the annual Bridge Tea,

Relief Committee

the Relief Committee does Catholic Action within our own walls by supporting the D. P. students here on campus. Under the chairmanship of Ginny Devereux, the RELIEF COMMITTEE again sent its annual contribution to the Catholic Students' Federation for the support of European students. With its own "garment district" on the ground floor of Founders' Hall, Relief carries on a never-ending clothes drive for the poor. Almost everything proves useful to someone who has nothing; the Committee accepts and seeks anything wearable, from an 1890 evening gown to a gymsuit that a graduating senior felt she would not need in the future.

Aside from these committees and organizations, there are several clubs and groups which provide opportunities for Catholic Action on campus or in the neighborhood.

The MISSION CLUB has contacts with missions in both hemispheres. Through correspondence, study, and talks with some of the missionaries, this club is able to give support where it is needed. The committee on INTERRACIAL ACTION plays a vital part in the work of N.F.C.C.S., and this year sponsored a discussion on the current problem of prejudice. DISC, the Damman Interracial Study Club, is the research group that furnishes Interracial Action with needed material and information for their panels and discussions. CITIZENSHIP CLUB analyzes the role of the responsible citizen of the world of today.

Thursday afternoons, the weekly "sewing circles" meet, and with the aid of needle, thread, and ingenuity, make altar linens, and produce dresses and toys for the poor. Every weekday, groups go out as nurses' aides, catechism teachers, or to help in an orphanage or community center; others act as Girl Scout leaders.

Materially speaking, a great deal is accomplished through the efforts of these Catholic Action groups. But far more important an accomplishment is the formation of an entire attitude and outlook—the habit of helping others. Catholic Action at Manhattanville is not a four year plan, it is a preparation for a lifetime of Christo-centric activity, the doing of tiny things that have tremendous significance.

Dramatic Club

*I*F YOU can transform a piece of cardboard into a brick wall, or construct a passable replica of a space helmet, do not despair of finding a useful outlet for your talents—Dramatic Club, at sometime or other, will probably be able to use you. If you like to act a little, sew a little, paint a little, and laugh a lot, this is the club for you. Under the expert direction of Miss Jaffer and Mother Fiske, these various talents have been advantageously organized in the presentation of many a successful production. This year was no exception. With the help of Lise's foresighted leadership and Thespian ability, Dramatic Club reached a new height with the Fall presentation of "The Madwoman of Chaillot", which as far as we are concerned was as great a success as its Broadway predecessor. Spring term brought us "Christopher Columbus", which was received by the college with equal enthusiasm. No matter what the play, however, talent, ingenuity and energy both on the stage and behind the scenes are always the keynotes of any "Little Theatre" offering.

*D*ebating Club offers its members the practice in public speaking and the opportunity to discuss a variety of topics ranging from the sublime to the ridiculous that helps the student of today to take her place as the leader of tomorrow. Under the chairmanship of Kay Mullan and the guidance of Mother Parton, the club sponsored the inter-class debates in which the Juniors emerged victorious for the third consecutive year. In the spring, the club ran a fictitious but heated political campaign. Every step of the way from the nominating convention to the actual election of the President, the rivalry and determination of the opposed parties created a strong atmosphere of reality. Between campaigning, club members engaged in a lively season of intramural competition on the topic, "Resolved: that the present program of farm price supports is beneficial to the farmer." No matter who won, the weekly battle of wits was always spirited.

“Over the hill and up the stairs to Pius X Hall we go . . .” Thus the Glee Club wended their way across the campus each Tuesday night to their appointed task. Enthusiastically they polished old and new selections for the three performances of the Christmas Carols which were held just before vacation. Added attractions this year were a night at Saks (Westchester Avenue!) and the successful recordings made of the concert at the college. Spring arrived and the Glee Club became involved in the romantic predicaments of Gilbert and Sullivan’s “Ruddigore”. With Miss Cave teaching the true British tradition and Janet Leahan providing invaluable accompaniment, the operetta provided pleasure for all concerned. To Betsy, the other officers, and to Mother Morgan, whose enthusiasm, humor, and patience have never failed to hold her audience, we say “thank you” for another year enlivened and enriched by the Manhattanville tradition of song.

Pius X Choir

*S*ince the move to Purchase in 1952, the Pius X Choir, which was founded more than thirty years ago at the old Manhattanville and has continued to exist as a tradition of the Pius X School of Music, has been fused with the Madrigal Society. This year the name of the Choir has supplanted that of the Madrigals, and the combined group of thirty-six hand-picked members has added to its study of secular works an even more intensive study of sacred music from Gregorian Chant and Polyphony to the works of contemporary composers. To be a member of the Choir is a highly sought honor, but at the same time it is a serious responsibility, for while the group is composed of amateur performers it has a professional tradition to uphold. Masses, Benedictions and Carols here at Purchase, as well as performances in Westchester, Albany and Rochester, attest its success in maintaining this standard. Seemingly endless hours of painstaking rehearsals often snatched from the odd moments of college life are the price of membership, but these have their own reward: the Choir members take pride in their organization and enjoy singing together. Perhaps it is the close union in which they work with Mother Morgan, Elaine and each other that gives them their oneness of purpose, loyal spirit and willingness to sing for the college and for God.

Steering Committee

Of all the Student Government organizations here at Manhattanville, one of the busiest, most important, yet most unobtrusive in its work is the Steering Committee. As the governing body of College Council, its function as stated in the preamble of the Constitution is to achieve "a closer unity within the college by a support of existing college institutions." With Kathy Bender as chairman, the Steering Committee brought about several innovations this year. Perhaps the most popular of these was the addition of a V.L.P. on Friday night—a proposition which, needless to say, aroused little opposition and was joyfully and unanimously passed by the student body. A vital part of College Council, the Steering Committee exists for the purpose of coordinating our activities, expressing our opinions through elected representatives, and thus, fostering a fuller realization of the aims of college life.

This year the English Club members had the modern American short story as their theme and Kate Crossley as their chief "lady of letters". Besides the usual discussions, the year was highlighted by a panel discussion on opportunities for future literary endeavors and a lecture by W. H. Auden. From the English Club, six members are elected to The Essay Board whose editor-in-chief this year was Anne Foley. While the English Club offers training for leadership of critical opinion, The Essay offers tomorrow's author space for the products of a creative talent. The combination of the two organizations, both "moderated" by Mother Williams, provides ample outlet for the eager student whether her talents lie in the written or the spoken word.

THE CENTURION

Deadlines, proofreading and rewrites are necessary evils in any journalistic circle, but in some mysterious way they are forgotten as soon as the final product is ready for distribution. This accounts for the eagerness and enthusiasm with which Nora and The Centurion staff attack each new issue. This year the editorial staff was augmented by two Associate Editors, Weenie O'Keeffe and Mary Kay Johnson, who assisted in planning the layout of the paper. The work which this entails, from the distribution of the primary assignments to the finished sheet, was illustrated in The Centurion's interesting and informative exhibit during National Education Week which showed us the inside workings of "the eyes and ears of Manhattanville".

Dance Committee

"Bigger and better dances" was the goal of this year's Dance Committee, and it is one which we all agree has been fully achieved. Under Mother Morgan's able supervision and with the tireless and ingenious efforts of its members the Prom Room took on a more festive air at least twice a month. A few weeks before Christmas, it was transformed into a "Winter Wonderland" of silver and blue for our annual Snow Ball Prom. It was almost a case of the supply not quite fulfilling the demand, since it looked for a time as though even Manhattanville's endless quantity of tables would be insufficient for the record numbers that arrived. Imbued with Mary Gara's spontaneous warmth, the Dance Committee has succeeded in making all the dances this year bright and memorable parts of college life.

Frivolous Affairs

This year, in an effort to provide the college with more efficient service, Frivolous Affairs Committee was organized as a club and enlarged to include sixteen members. Under the co-chairmanship of Audrey Connell and Sue Flanagan, and with the advice of Mother Bourneuf, Manhattanville's private "ticket agency" welcomed all suggestions and willingly undertook to procure tickets to any entertainment whether opera or rodeo. Perhaps the uninitiated may wonder why so many representatives are needed, but a look behind the scenes reveals the answer. Into each Thursday night "on the town" goes a vast amount of time consuming labor expended in such varied tasks as advertising, telephoning, arranging transportation, obtaining chaperones and compiling sign-out lists. In adapting itself to our wide range of preference, Frivolous Affairs has increased our appreciation of the cultural and enriched the lighter side of college life.

Athletic Association

*W*ith its newly enlarged committee, the Athletic Association undertook a busy and successful year under the capable direction of Mary Ann Rice. Friendly competition and outstanding good sportsmanship contributed to the notable success of the 1954 Hockey Squad. On the inter-class level, hard fought games left no doubt as to the ability of the Freshman class who triumphantly carried off the hockey cup. The need for an imaginative winter season has not lessened since the move to Purchase, but Miss McMullin and Miss McGann met the challenge with remarkable ingenuity. Gym classes provided everything from calisthenics and acrobatics to square dancing and choreography. For the more hardy, Friday night skating parties, complete with music, cocoa and bonfires, were organized on the new skating pond. With the coming of spring, Lacrosse and Tennis Varsities began practice while Manhattanville's minor league engaged in spirited inter-class competition. Whatever your field, the Manhattanville A.A. has the answer for you.

"Smoke gets in your eyes."

At least this one is in English.

Manhattanville's finest

Oh, my heavens, they've doubled! !

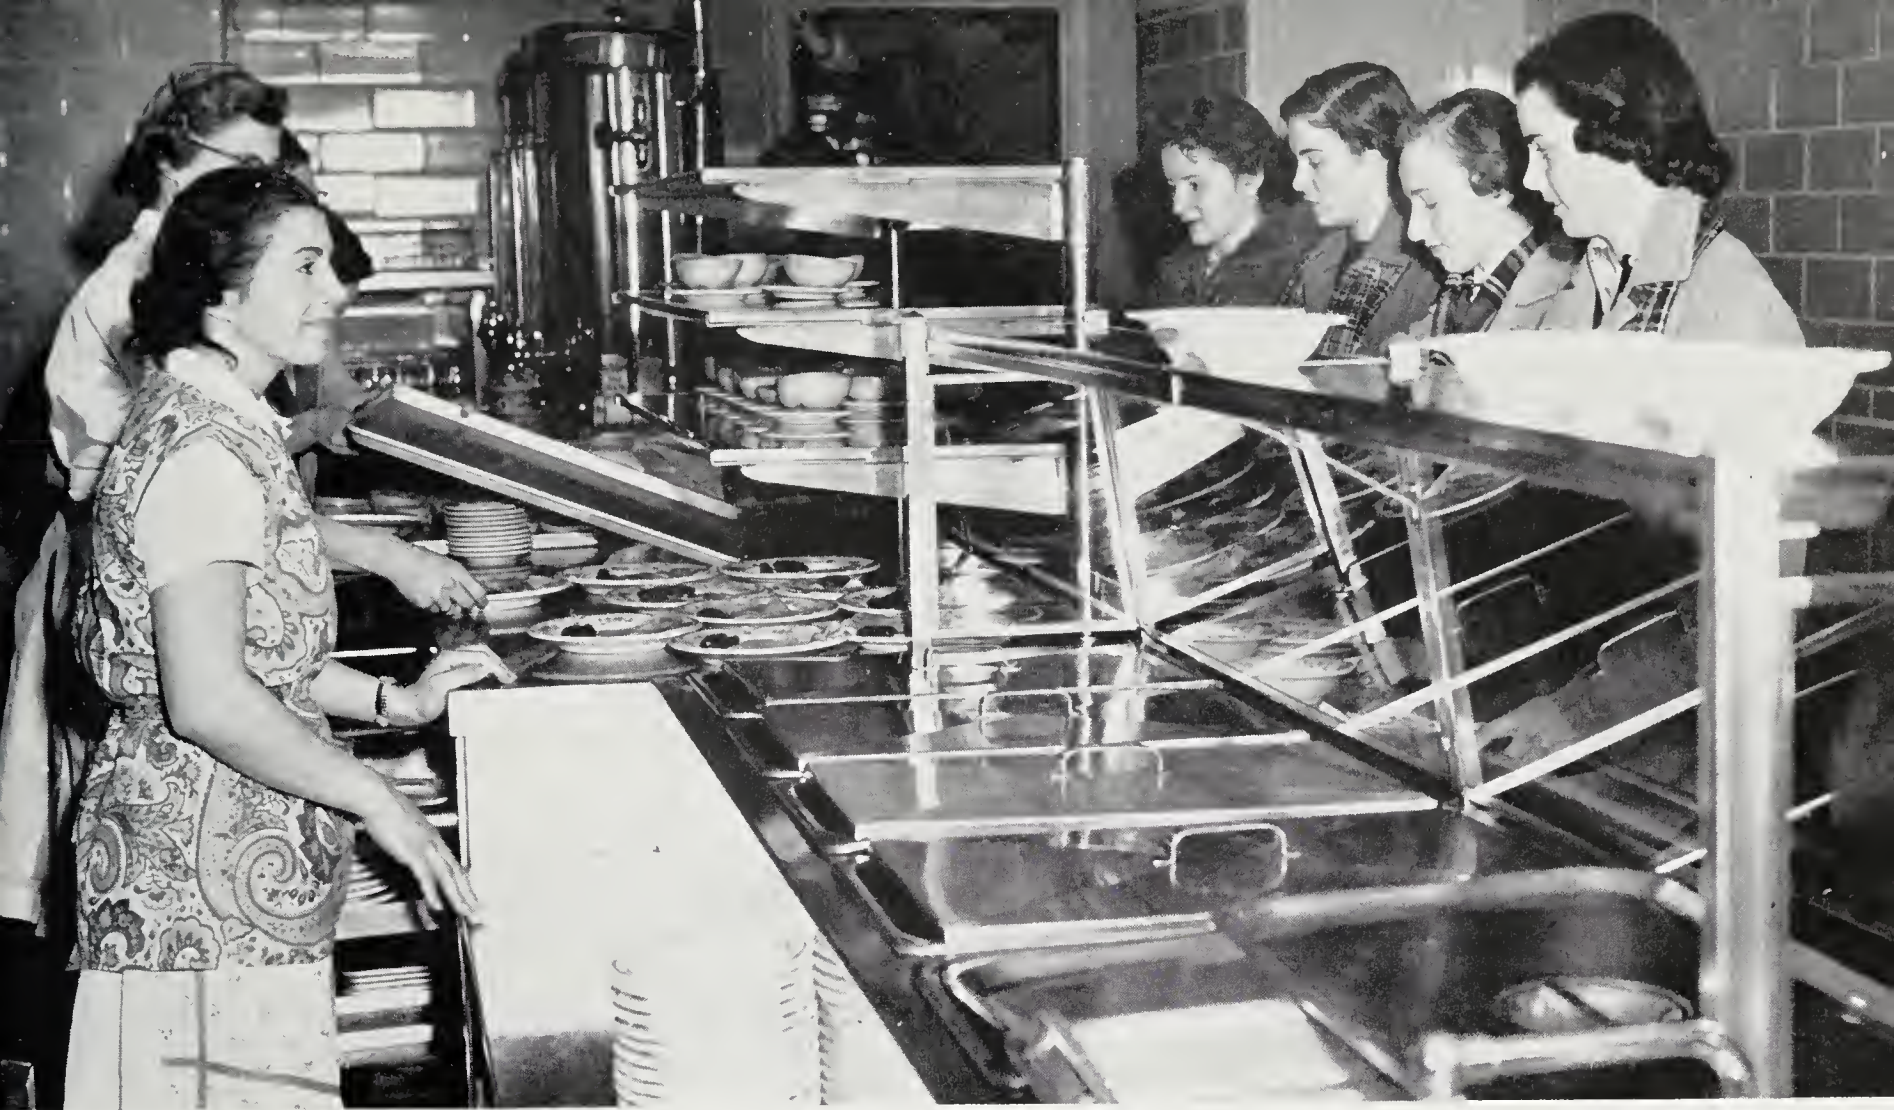

"Today's News Today"

"I have measured out my life with coffee spoons;"

"We are the hollow men"

The Thinker

*"Oh, but we had no intention of going in that door!"*

*“It’s such a nice party,
It’s such a nice party.”*

*I hate to leave it.
I'd like to repeat it."*

Ye-es?

Take a card, any card.

The Tower Board Thanks:

REVEREND MOTHER MULQUEEN, for her encouragement and continuing interest in our progress.

MOTHER CAVANAGH, for twelve o'clock permissions, soothing advice in crucial moments, and above all, for her support and enthusiasm throughout the entire year.

MOTHER GERTRUDE BRADY, for providing us with needed information.

MOTHER O'GORMAN and DR. O'BRIEN, for the addition and subtraction of commas, and for incredible patience with and interest in the endeavors of the "literary unlit."

MOTHER DOWD, for braving the elements in the interests of photography and for adding to our knowledge of the Class of '55.

MOTHER WILLIAMS, for showing us: how pleasant to meet Mr. Eliot.

MOTHER BOURNEUF, for her tireless proofreading and unflagging encouragement.

THE JAHN AND OLLIER COMPANY, for their sincere interest and professional advice which made our book possible.

WHITE STUDIOS, for professional photography.

HARCOURT, BRACE and COMPANY, for permission to quote from the following works of T. S. Eliot: COLLECTED POEMS, FOUR QUARTETS, THE FAMILY REUNION, OLD POSSUM'S BOOK OF PRACTICAL CATS, and THE COCKTAIL PARTY.

OUR PATRONS AND ADVERTISERS, for their financial help and support.

ALL THE JUNIORS, who typed, proofread, collected subscriptions, and stood by us through sieges of occupational disease.

BRECK CREME RINSE · A NEW PREPARATION

Breck Creme Rinse, a new preparation, is used after the shampoo to add softness, lustre and manageability to your hair. Hair that has a tendency to tangle is made easy to comb and arrange by use of Breck Creme Rinse. It is helpful in the care of permanent waves and in the prevention of dry, brittle hair. Breck Creme Rinse is easy to use. Dilute one tablespoonful in a cup of warm water. Following the final shampoo rinse, pour slowly over the hair, massage thoroughly, then rinse with warm water. Breck Creme Rinse will leave your hair soft, fragrant and easy to manage.

Senior Class Hockey Team of 1929

This class has faced a world which has changed radically since its graduation 26 years ago — the Depression, the New Deal, World War II, Korea, television, synthetics, plastics, the Atom Bomb — even Manhattanville moved! Now

We're reaching for the Moon

And you of '55 may see the opening of this new frontier. Like '29 you will see many changes — good or bad, incredible or terrifying. You yourselves will change, as has the Class of '29, BUT for you and '29 and all the other classes one thing will remain immutable, the sure, firm basis for living which we have all received during our years at Manhattanville. For this we are ever grateful — with love, with interest, with support.

"Jahn & Ollier Again"

A familiar and reassuring slogan

FAMILIAR...because it has appeared in thousands of the country's finest yearbooks for the past half century.

REASSURING...because those years of specialized experience bring complete service, outstanding quality and dependable delivery to the yearbook staffs, with whom we work.
